

TEN INFLUENTIAL AUSTRALIAN INTEGRATORS

Brenton Morris
Intelligent Home

For the past 14 years, Intelligent Home has been one of the leading integration outfits in Western Australia, employing 75 people. Director Brenton Morris is a former CEDIA Board Member and support of SmartWired House.

Stuart Robertson
E-Home Automation

Former CEDIA Board vice president Stuart Robertson is one of the most active integrators in the Victorian market. Based in Carnegie, he is well-known in the local home automation market and is a regular at all industry events.

Mark Jeisman
Surround Sounds

Based in Nedlands, WA, multi-award winning Surround Sounds has become synonymous with luxury, frequently holding information nights co-sponsored by diamond and jewellery suppliers, high-end car makers and the Miss Australia pageant.

Damian Cavanagh
Electronic Living

In addition to running one of the largest, most successful installation companies in Queensland, winning multiple awards for their projects, Damian Cavanagh is a foundation ambassador for the Zig Zag Foundation.

Len Wallis
Len Wallis Audio

Perhaps the most recognisable name and face of the Australian integration industry, Len Wallis has been recognised all around the world for his business acumen and ability to design some of the most intricate smart home systems.

Brendon Reid
Automation Associates (NZ)

The success of Brendon Reid and his company, Automation Associates, has motivated many Aussie integrators to keep up with our Kiwi neighbours. Brendon is also the first NZ-based representative on the CEDIA Board of Directors.

James Billington
Smart Home Solutions

James Billington has been around since the dawn of CEDIA in Australia and played a major role in the association's Australian birth. From CEDIA to the cover of Connected Home's first edition, James has done it all.

Harry Simidis
Control Freq

Harry Simidis has spent a lifetime working at every level of the Australian home automation industry, from product management for HPM and Dynalite to lighting control system design and installation, to CEDIA's Board of Directors.

Nathan Gill
Automated Innovation

Based in NSW's Central Coast, Nathan Gill is an electrical contractor and systems integrator that actively promotes residential technologies in both communities. In addition to CEDIA, Nathan has also been recognised for his work by NECA.

Frank di Bartolo
Pacific Hi-Fi

Current CEDIA Board Member Frank di Bartolo has over 35 years' experience as an electronics and information systems professional. Starting with Miranda Hi-Fi in 1978, he opened Pacific Hi-Fi in 1989 and has never looked back.

TEN LEADING AUSTRALIAN DISTRIBUTORS

From all around the country, these ten distributors are among the companies that ensure the Australian industry has access to the world's leading AV brands.

